HARVEST 2012

HURRICANE SANDY

People walk near the remains of burned homes in the Breezy Point neighborhood of Queens, New York, on Wednesday, October 31. More than 100 homes were destroyed in a fire during and after Hurricane Sandy, and more than 50 people were killed in the United States in Sandy-related incidents. Millions along the Eastern Seaboard coped with major losses and daily inconveniences.

An unprecedented storm, nicknamed Frankenstorm, Hurricane Sandy, a category 1 hurricane over its entire path, has killed at least 124 people – 67 in the Caribbean, 56 in the United States and one in Canada. NYC, New Jersey and other states came to a standstill as water and waves came ashore flooding subways, airports, closing bridges, causing thousands to evacuate from their homes, workplaces, and even hospitals and leaving millions without power. The New York Stock Exchange was closed for two days – something that has never happened. Wednesday, the storm was over the Great Lakes Region, where its strong winds are expected to trigger some lakeside flooding as well as additional snowfall in parts of West Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. More than 5.3 million customers across the eastern US are still in the dark Wednesday, down from the nearly 8 million who lost power shortly after the storm hit. It will take weeks before they can assess the total damage.

November 3-11: Kyla is traveling back to Boston to have scar tissue broken up in her right knee (with manipulation) so she can get her full range of motion back. If that doesn't work, they'll scope it. Ouch!
